Sir R.: Prithee — where am I? What age is this? Am I bewitched?
 What ho there! Who art thou?
 Horace: Hi man! I'm Horace. What kind of a get-up is that? You look like way-out!
 Sir R.: It is I who am asking the questions. You are strangely garbed yourself. Perhaps you could inform me—what annum is this?
 Horace: (What a nut! Doesn't even know the year.) It's like this, year is 1960. Do you get the message?
 Sir R.: By my lady! I have been misplaced, what magic is afoot!
 This is very unusual. Horace, you are Horace? What land am I now in?
 Horace: Well, Sir this is the neat land of the Horsemen. This school is Horace Mann. By the way, what's your name?
 Sir R.: Permettez-moi de me presente. I am the honorable Sir Reminiscence. You say school, what prithee doth that mean?
 Horace: Well, that's the place where our children are taught various subjects.
 Sir R.: Ah, a castle to instruct the pages, apprentices, and squires in the knightly virtues—jousting, chivalry, charity, chastity, etc.
 Horace: Like no, we learn world geography, algebra, and that sort of stuff.
 Sir R.: What strange language. Who are this goodly company? What do these lords and ladies?
 Horace: Oh, those kids. They're the ones who run the classes. They keep the money, direct activities, compile records — you know, keep things moving.

Sir R.: The Lord High Chamberlain, the Keeper of the Privy Seal, and the Royal Exchequer. I know their duties well.

Horace: Who? What?

Sir R.: Foolish knave, the Lord High Chamberlain directs the various activities of the castle from culinary pursuits to the duties of the pages.

Horace: Say! That's like our President. What do those other guys do?

Sir R.: The Chamberlain assists his superior. Often he must take over the duties when the Lord High Chamberlain is away. Do you have such a post?

Horace: Well, Sir R., our Veep, oops Vice-President, does that sort of stuff. Who are these characters — the Keeper of the Privy Seal, and the Royal Exchequer?

Sir R.: Oh, but you are ignorant of our ways. I shall continue to inform you. The Keeper of the Privy Seal continuously records the happenings of the kingdom. Then he compiles these records into books which are stored in the castle. Controlling financial matters was the task of the Royal Exchequer.

Horace: Wow! Just like our Secretary and Treasurer. Seems like you had the same fellows, but called them different names. Guess, our times are really not so far apart.

Sir R.: One might make such an observation.

Horace: That's neat. Say who elects these men? Here at H.M. (that's short for Horace Mann) each class votes on its own officers. Real democratic.

Sir R.: What means that word elect? The king naturally appoints all officials for the realm.

Horace: Elect(well we all get a ballot and mark the box in front of the name of the person we want to get the office. After all these votes are counted the guy or gal with the most gets the post.

Sir R.: You allow even the pages and apprentices to determine their leaders?

Horace: But of course! We'll, at least the leaders of their own class.

Sir R.: Why, in all Christendom, I have never heard of such a practice.

Horace: How undemocratic can you get? You a Russian or something?

Sir R.: I do not care for that tone of voice, but I shall excuse you. Am I to understand that these officials represent the people, not the King?

Horace: Naturally they represent the Kids. What else?

Sir R.: In my time the people were subjects of the King or Lord. He controlled all activities.

Horace: Oh, that's ancient history now.

Sir R.: Yes, I have surmised that the world has changed greatly.

Horace: You're finally catchin' on. Why don't you stick around awhile? Then you could see what H.M. is really like. I could introduce you to bunches of Kids. Then you could meet the people who really run the show, our teachers and the administrators. They're the ones who organize everything. Our Principals, Mr. Carlson and Mr. Mart make certain everything is running smoothly. They check on attendance, class scheduling, excuses, and dozens of other things. Their office staff has loads of work, especially this year with the new report cards and attendance slips. I'll have to show you the new machines we have this year. Real modern!

Horace: There will be so many people for you to meet. We have over seventy teachers here. Every one has a specific subject that he or she teaches. I'll bet you'll be surprised to see how educated our women are — they can even vote, just like men.

Sir R.: Astonishing. I am anxious to see more of this realm.

Horace: Well, here I am — your guide, interpreter, and righthand man. Horace, at your service. Let's get going!

In Appreciation

Ann Botts

Mrs. Botts was cheerful and witty in the classroom, but she also challenged her pupils to work very hard. As a teacher she was patient, clear, and persistent. Somehow pupils who thought that mathematics was beyond them, found that it was possible to learn almost in spite of themselves.

Mrs. Botts earned her undergraduate degree from the University of Minnesota. She has kept up with the changing concepts in the field of teaching mathematics and has always been interested in experimenting with new materials and courses.

In her private life, reading, gardening, study of world affairs have been among her recreational interests. She hopes to devote more time to these, now that she is no longer teaching. She and her husband also plan to catch up on another of their major hobbies — traveling.

Horace Mann regrets that Mrs. Botts has left us. We shall miss her.

Finley French

Mr. French with his warm smile and gracious manner has long been a favorite teacher and a friend to the pupils at Horace Mann. He is a fair but exacting instructor who has encouraged many boys to enter drafting as a profession. Both his generations of home room pupils and his class room students have found him to be someone who is interested in their welfare and who is ever ready to talk with them about their problems.

Another contribution Mr. French has made to Horace Mann lies in the field of Visual Aids. He started the Projection Club and has managed this program from its beginning at H.M. His quiet, unruffled manner, competence, and interest have done much to make this service run smoothly and efficiently.

Mr. French earned his B.S. degree from Indiana State Teachers' College and his M.S. degree from Columbia University and Indiana State Teachers' College.

Upon retirement, Mr. French hopes to devote time not only to golf, fishing and travel but also to community affairs. He has long been active in several local organizations.

His genial good humor and friendliness, will be missed at Horace Mann by all of the pupils and the faculty.

Dora Mae Hill

One of the best liked and most highly respected teachers in Horace Mann is Miss Hill. Pupils find that she is quiet and pleasant mannered, but also that she sets exacting standards and expects all her students to make an effort to meet them. Everyone who follows the well organized pattern she sets for them, finds that he is well prepared in English, either for college or for the world of work.

In addition to her teaching, Miss Hill has sponsored various activities. For many years she acted as head of the Senior Honor Society and she has been a favorite choice for junior and senior class sponsor.

Miss Hill took her under graduate degree at the University of Missouri and her Masters from the University of Chicago. She has had a number of hobbies — reading, hiking, playing the violin, studying the world of nature out-of-doors.

At present her home on the lake in Lakeside, Michigan, has absorbed much of her time. There she spends time in entertaining, in gardening, and in enjoying the birds, raccoons, and other wildlife which come to the feeding stations in her back yard.

Horace Mann faculty and pupils regret that she is leaving us but hope she enjoys her new teaching experience.

Evleyn Page

For many years the Horace Mann Junior High School students have participated in Christmas pageants, music festivals, Mother's Day programs, and many more similar activities. Those students who have taken part in these programs remember Mrs. Page's enthusiasm and interest.

Being a favorite among the pupils, Mrs. Page finds herself devoting much of her time helping her pupils in their individual studies as well as coaching them for solo contests and musical festivals. Many a student can say that Mrs.

Page has done much to spark his interest in music.

Mrs. Page took her degree from Iowa State College, but since then has studied music with several private teachers.

Upon retiring, Mrs. Page hopes to be able to spend more time with her lovely grandchildren and in various community affairs. Traveling and bridge games will also keep her busy.

Yes, Mrs. Page is another teacher whose loss will be greatly felt here at Horace Mann High School.

Man-U-Script Chronicles the Land of the Horseman

Horace.

"Well, let's get started. I guess I might as well begin by telling you about the Mann-U-Script. That's our school newspaper. Gosh — in your day printing wasn't even invented. I'm going to have a hard time explaining this to you."

Sir Reminiscence.

"In this land I am beset with marvels every day!"

Horace.

"Here goes nothing! We have a newspaper — sort of like a flat scroll — that tells everyone what's going on. Here at H.M. we have all kinds of clubs that keep us busy. The sports also take up a great deal of our time. The M.U.S. reporters write stories about all these events, so that everyone knows what's doing."

"Believe me, these kids don't have an easy job. Gathering specific information is really tough. Running around, talking to people, getting pictures, and that is quite a task."

"Then the reporters must write the stories, type them up, and send them to the printers. You see, we use machines instead of scribes. They can do a lot more and faster. Most of the people in the land of the Horsemen subscribe — you know — pay money for the year. By the way, issues of the M.U.S. come out every other Thursday."

"Oh yes, the business angle comes in. At the beginning of the year the reporters and editors sell these subscriptions. Boy, they certainly do a good job too. I nearly bought two!"

"Back to the news part. The reporters have to pass a set of tryouts before they become members of the guild. Here's one place that their faculty sponsor certainly helps. Well, I really shouldn't say that because she helps a lot all year 'round. She checks the stories to see that the ideas are all right. Her experience is needed, since the stories are actually written before some of the events occur."

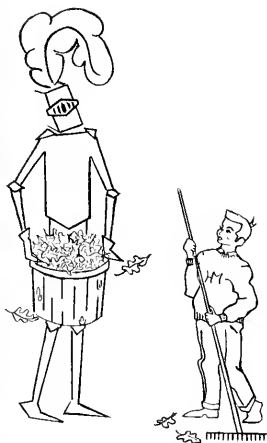

"Well, I've said plenty. Did you get the message?"

Sir Reminiscence.

"A poor simple knight can but be burdened with so many messages."

Horace.

"Listen, I'll clue you in. If you can read, follow the Mann-U-Script; you'll really be hep to what's going on."

Girl's Club Starts Activities for All Horace Mann Damsels

All maidens in the land of the Horsemen are Girl's Club members and enjoy it's privileges.

To welcome the newcomers the club holds a potluck feast early in the fall. Here big sister upper classmen found their little sisters by matching patches. A series of original numbers—one produced by each of the four classes—furnished the entertainment. This annual mixer launches each new school year for all Horace Mann girls.

Just before Thanksgiving time the girls hold several after-noon meetings at which they make favors; these were used by the local hospitals as Thanksgiving decorations for patients' trays. Cookies and milk were served to the favor makers, who usually enjoy these busy after school sessions.

The Christmas tea for faculty and students has become another Horace Mann tradition. The program furnished jointly by faculty and students consists of Christmas Music. Everyone who attends contributes a can of food or money. Later these donations are given to needy Gary families in Christmas baskets.

At Christmas time the board and officers from Horace Mann and Lew Wallace exchanged ideas and discussed their mutual problems at a chili supper, held in the home of Jody Blanning.

Twirp Week — when the sexes reverse their roles — always furnishes mirth and revelry for all the Horsemen. Girls hold open the doors, carry books, and furnish "treats" for their boy friends. A sock hop is featured at this time but the real climax comes with the Turn About dance when the maidens ask that certain boy. An "Oriental Paradise" turned the gym into a Japanese land. A goodly crowd and a good orchestra resulted in a successful dance.

In the spring a representative group attended the Suburban Girls' conference in Park Ridge, Illinois. Inspirational speakers, group discussions as well as an opportunity to talk with girls from many other schools made this a stimulating experience for those who attended.

On May 16, the club gave a Farewell Tea for all seniors girls. This event offers the girls and the faculty an opportunity to meet informally before the end of the school year, as well as to say "goodby and goodluck" to the graduates. Thus the club spans the year with a welcome and a farewell festival for all girls.

Valient Knights Compete in Lists

The opening of combat on the football field delighted Sir Reminiscence for here at last was something familiar. True the armor worn for the joust looked a trifle odd, even gaudy but the rules in the field seemed easy enough to understand. "A joust is a joust," said he to Horace. "Of course," said Horace, "it has been modified through the years but the basic principles of combat, offense, and defense are still very much in evidence. Instead of individual combat, which glorified the ancient tournaments, the modern sport requires a closely knit unit of eleven men who play as a team."

Sir Reminiscence was very fortunate in visiting Horace Mann at a time when football was at its zenith. Under the guidance of Sirs Elser and Herbert, the Warriors in Red and White surprised the entire kingdom with a fine record of seven victories, one loss, and one tie. The Horsemen opened up the season by overpowering Gary Edison 25-0. They continued winning until October 27, with only a 7-7 tie with Lew Wallace to mar their record. At this point in the schedule the Horsemen's 5-0-1 record included a 41-0 victory over Hammond Tech, and a 35-0 shellacking of Portage. The team was ranked ninth in the kingdom's football polls.

Thursday, October 27 must have been cursed by Merlin himself. It was on that day that the footballers suffered their only defeat of the season, at the hands of a determined Emerson team. The cross town rivals, who took advantage of numerous Mann mistakes, emerged with a 33-27 upset victory. Although it was hard to forget the Emerson game, the courageous Horsemen recovered themselves and trounced Froebel 39-6. This event climaxed one of the most successful seasons in Horace Mann's history.

Modern Class Room Devices Used at H. M.

Films today? Common procedure in most H.M. classrooms. Sir Reminiscence couldn't resist slipping into the darkened rooms where this fascinating process was going on. Some days he was kept pretty busy following the boys who, armed with round tin disks and a strange machine on wheels, went from room to room on each floor.

Mr. French, Club Sponsor, explained to Sir Reminiscence that the visual-aid program is administered by a group of devoted students known as the Projection Club. These well qualified audio-video-technicians often sacrifice their study and lunch hours to show movies and slides, and to operate tape recorders and phonographs.

A large group of operators is necessary today, for frequently every machine in the building will be in use each hour of the day. Each year more class rooms have "darkening curtains" and each year H. M. acquires more equipment.

The projection Club is one of the most active groups in the Land of the Horsemen.

The Castle Guards

One day while cantering jauntily through the land of the Horsemen on his trusty steed, Sir Reminiscence was confronted with a perplexing situation. His problem was that of the crossing of congested Garfield way on horseback. What ho! Don't laugh. Sir Reminiscence was having real difficulty, but then he saw help. It was the castle guard arriving for duty. He had Sir Reminiscence soon safely across to the other side. One question then came to Sir Reminiscence's mind. What kind of a guard was this? He has no armor, no mail.

Since Sir Reminiscence, like any intelligent man, had a great thirst for knowledge, he stopped to inquire as to the duties and responsibilities of this guard. He found that the castle guards are known to the citizens of the land of the Horsemen, as Patrol Boys. They wear no mail and carry no weapons; the white belt is the Patrol Boy's badge of authority. Sir Reminiscence seemed quite pleased with everything he had heard until the Patrol Boys informed him that many students ignore and refuse the help offered by these devoted public servants.

"Why the wretches," said he. "Deal harshly with these miscreants. My guards would trounce them soundly."

Regular meetings are held at which lectures are given and movies shown to help them become more proficient in their duties. The Chicago Motor Club also distributes pamphlets and circulars that give hints on safety to students. The boys told the knight that they had special training from time to time.

Horace Mann so far has a fine safety record which is in large part the work of these devoted guards.

Modern Men Pursue an Ancient Sport

Known to us as "the Guard" the Fencing Club interested Sir Reminiscence immensely. He was obviously pleased at seeing a display of this classic mode of warfare. He was quite provoked, however, when he saw that the fencers wear safety garb. Horace tried to calm him down by telling him that fencing has evolved from a method of eliminating an adversary to a sport of skill and agility.

Kelly Harrington, club president, and Mr. Friel, sponsor, explained the sport of fencing as we know it today. Sir Reminiscence learned that this season "the Guard" met 2 opponents in 3 meets. They beat South Side Center 16-8, then lost to them 13-11 and to Culver 19-8.

In the Round-Robin Tournament held at the end of the season to determine the best fencers in the 3 divisions, foil, epee, and sabre, Dave Gage came away with the honors by winning in the foil and epee classes while Bill Hoosier was victorious in sabre. Although its record was below the sought after 500 mark, "the Guard" shows promise of a good year next year and even better season to follow.

Here is the Source of Our School Spirit

Today Booster Club publicizes all the festivals, jousts, and tournaments in the land of the Horsemen.

Members are elected by the students. The club in turn supervises and prepares the tests which must be passed by those who wish to become cheerleaders. Selected members of the faculty and the student body choose six varsity and four reserve cheerleaders from among the apprentices who aspire to this honor.

The apprentices make signs for all games. The club also prepares interesting decorations for all festivals and dances which it sponsors. Some member can be seen almost any day outside the door of the Girls' Gym industriously painting. The group also makes favors to sell for important games.

The club plans for pep meetings and arranges special features which will encourage the various teams as well as the student body. The cheer leaders work hard, too, on teaching new yells and on building up good cheering sections.

The first major activity of Booster Club is the Homecoming Game. A pep rally is held to promote the spirit that the team will need. The club also plans the election of the Homecoming Queen who is crowned at the tournament and reigns over the festivities of the night. Another activity of Booster Club is the annual Senior King and Queen dance. The categories for Kings and Queens range from dance to personality. Each Senior is given a ballot to record his choice of the student who he believes best fits each category. The highlight of the evening is the crowning of the couple that the Senior Class feels are "the ideal persons." Shouts of joy and tears of happiness end an enjoyable evening. Sir Reminiscence was pleased to observe the tradition of Kings and Queens is still very popular.

Booster Club together with Social Committee arranges a Who's Who Dinner each year. This event brings together the sponsors and presidents of all school organizations. This year's theme "Spring Showers" provided a most attractive setting for good food and fun which usually characterize this festival.

With all the work that has to be performed by Booster Club, there is still time for fun and rewards. Booster Club has held two breakfasts during the year and also a banquet at year's end.

At the dinner at Phil Snide's the cheerleaders received trophies for their magnificent work and the other members were praised for their good work in encouraging and building up at Horace Mann a fine display of school spirit — a commodity which no school should lack.

Seek Success on the Courts

The Horace Mann "Lords of the Claycourts" raised quite a racket this year. While tennis is only in its second season at Horace Mann, the tennis team, under coach Nick Sweigart, finished in a tie for third in the conference on the basis of its creditable 3-3 record. The racketeers started the season slowly by losing their first two matches against Hammond High and Hammond Tech; but they got back on the winning side by beating Hammond Clark and Tolleston. The team concluded its abbreviated season by splitting with E. C. Roosevelt and E. C. Washington. The future Pancho Gonzaleses and Lew Hoads are as follows: Seniors: David Gage, Jerry Karski, Bud Levenberg, and Tom Tuckett. Sophomores: David Finkel, Jack Strang, and Dave Tuckett.

CROSS COUNTRY LETTERMEN

Kelly Harrington, Fred Fogo

Horsemen Sally Forth Over Hill and Dale

While journeying through H.M. land, Sir Reminiscence and Horace encountered a sport as old as man himself — the cross-country foot race. Cross country is one sport which has changed little through the ages. While modern trackmen use a variety of specialized shoes and equipment, the present day cross country runners, in most cases, still run in bare feet and wear whatever is comfortable. The object of the contest is merely to run a gruelling two mile course faster than the other fellow.

The Mann cross country team compiled a 3-7 record in cross country competition this year. Although that wasn't an overly impressive record, it was adequate considering the obstacles encountered. In Coach Jack Hobbs' first year of coaching Cross Country, he found, to his dismay, that lightning does strike twice. With three returning lettermen in Fred Fogo, Kelly Harrington, and Mike Bobele, and with the expected help from former footballers Tom Smith and Art Angotti, the outlook was fairly bright. The preseason optimism was shattered when Angotti became sick and Bobele was injured. With the numbers first and third runners out of action, Fred Fogo, the number two runner, found the load was too much, so Horace Mann dropped its first six meets.

The Horsemen's fortunes began to change when sophomore Joe Delgado provided some help and Angotti regained his form. With full strength and better conditioning, the Horsemen Harriers galloped to victories in three of their last four meets. They climaxed the season with a fine showing in the sectionals. Cross Country lettermen seniors: Fred Fogo, Kelly Harrington, and Ed McCarty; Juniors: Art Angotti, Mike Bobele, Tom Smith, Jerry Walley; Sophomores: Joe Delgado; manager: Dave Barnes.

They Rule the Castle

Presiding over all student groups in the land of the Horsemen is the Student Council. Any member of the kingdom may voice his opinion about the improvement of the school or protest about something by presenting his case to any Student Council representative.

Various groups within the Council work to keep the land in royal condition. One, the Legislative Committee, under the direction of Suzanne Tyler, tried a new voting procedure this year. All voting for Queens and Kings was held before and after school and during the lunch hours. In this way only those interested enough to voice their opinion were allowed to cast a ballot. This project turned out to be a success. Contrarily, elections for class officers, Booster Club, and Social committee were held by secret ballot, cast in every classroom.

The important Student Relations Committee, headed by Sue Olander, gave several teas for the faculty. Through these informal contacts the teachers and pupils became better acquainted. Another duty of this group involved orientation for the eighth graders. Special discussion meetings on dating and high school curriculum were presented to help the underclassmen on the problems encountered upon entrance into high school. The pupils were given an opportunity to ask questions that concerned their particular problems.

Related to student relations the Code of Ethics Committee, led by Jim Dimitri, is responsible for the rules of conduct that all students should follow in their daily life. The Handbook Committee, under the direction of Jim Radigan, was very busy this year preparing a new Horace Mannerism book. The on-coming Freshmen will receive this guide to acquaint them with the courses and activities offered them during high school. "Relations with others," through publicity was the duty of Andrea Shimko and her Press Committee.

The actual physical part of the castle is under the charge of the Buildings and Grounds Committee headed by Joe Ewing. It inspects the school to see if any improvement is needed and sets up rules for posters to be used in campaigning or in advertising school events. The Calendar and Lost and Found Committee, with Maggie Kuchas as chairman, is in charge of the posting of all current events and the maintaining of the Lost and Found bureau. Martha Ashbaugh, President of Council, co-ordinated the activities of these committees.

This group also represents the Horsemen at various conclaves held in the city, state, and nation. Horace Mann was honored this year when Student Council members from many districts in our Indiana came to H.M. for its annual gathering. Many and varied were the tasks our representatives performed. Many proclamations — over three hundred were sent forth into the land. Provision for entertainment, food, and programs had to be arranged. When our visitors were pleased, the H.M. representatives felt repaid for their labors. Some were rewarded, too, by being appointed as leaders in the state organization.

Direction of the city-wide S.O.S. drive also falls to the lot of this group. Collecting student contributions and arranging for money making projects kept members busy for several weeks. The faculty-senior basketball game and Fun Night not only brought in money but likewise furnished a feast of fun for all.

There is also time for fun. The induction dinner in the fall and the spring banquet are festivals for members themselves. The annual Holiday Ball is a celebration for everyone in the land as well as for those who have left H.M. to journey into new experiences. This year the dance, held in the Crystal Ball Room at the Hotel Gary, was gay with big white snowballs, and two huge snowmen. Its gala mood fitting the holiday season.

Under the guiding light of Student Council the school is built. A school can not function properly without a Student Council for the voice of every student is an important element in the development of a better school. Faculty-student relations also contributes to this process. Student Council is the backbone of the school, and the school, in turn, is the backbone of the nation.

H. M. Enjoys Its Own Guild Plays

The Horace Mann Dramatic Guild has staged many productions this past year. The acting, scenery, and costumes of the Guild seemed superior to those of past generations. During the year the guild studies various phases of dramatic production and acting at its meetings. Members give reviews of current plays, or report on theatrical activities. To further members' study of the theatre, the entire group goes to see one or two professional plays.

At Christmas the actors presented "Scrooge" for all the people in the land. This story vividly sets forth the real purpose of Christmas and leaves its audience with a moral to think about.

The senior group of the Guild presented All My Sons to the people of the kingdom. The Sophomore and Juniors of the kingdom also put on their own play each year, and the Thespians help to produce these plays. This shows that the Guild not only knows how to act, but also how to help produce plays. Aside from producing and giving the plays, the Guild also helps with the make-up of the other actors and makes scenery.

Every year the Guild members give a play from the noted playwright, William Shakespeare. "Twelfth Night" is the comedy which they studied and produced for the Horsemen in 1961.

After each of the plays, the members of the stage production have a party at the home of one of the Guild members. These parties are cheerful and festive. There is singing and dancing and refreshments. They last well into the morning hours but it is a small reward for all the hard work put into giving a play. The annual banquet of the Thespians in the spring is a farewell for the Seniors, an occasion for presentation of awards, as well as the last social event for the club.

F. T. A. Entertains Children at Christmas Time

"But ideals are like stars," replied the frustrated damsel to the myriad questions of Sir Reminiscence.

Sir Reminiscence still didn't understand so the maiden continued, "you will not succeed in touching them with your hands; but, like the seafaring man, you choose them as your guides, and following them, you will reach your destiny."

Upon this explanation, our Sir Reminiscence was all the more confused so again the distressed damsel set out to explain, "You see, Sir Reminiscence, the maidens of Horace Mann's Future Teachers' of America Guild is reaching their destiny — that of becoming teachers — by using as their guides various activities connected with the teaching field. For example, one of this year's activities was a demonstration on the teaching of the blind. At this meeting, a little blind girl came to show them how she typed on a braille typewriter and read from a braille book.

"Very interesting, indeed, to tell me more," replied Sir Reminiscence, already convinced of the maiden's way of thinking.

"Well," said the earnest damsel, "they went on a journey to the Ball State Teachers' Campus to see what was in store for them as future advisors. They also spent an afternoon during the Christmas season entertaining the retarded children who attend Norton Park School for the Handicapped. And last, but by no means least, a meeting was held for the benefit of the members' parents to relate to them just what has been done during the school year."

With this Sir Reminiscence was convinced that ideals ARE like stars, these F.T.A. members are reaching for those ideals which make the very best of teachers.

Basketball Highlights the Winter Season

A new and strange game, called basketball, was perhaps the most interesting and exciting which Mr. Reminiscence and Horace saw during their visit to the "Land of the Horsemen." These two fugitives from time were on hand for every game and they were thoroughly impressed by our "knights of the Hardwood."

The 1960-61 edition of Horace Mann basketball certainly lived up to the name, "Hoosier Hysteria." The team, under coach Jack Hobbs, played some of the best and most exciting basketball in this region, and it was certainly better than an 11-10 record would indicate. Whether it was the rugged rebounding of Jerry Karski and Steve Manoski, the deadly shooting of Davis Blain and Fred Fogo, or the tenacious defense and slick ballhandling of Lee Kopulos and Tommy Smith, the Horsemen always hustled and fought their way through every game. They never quit, and just when things looked their worst, the Red and White would unleash a terrific scoring barrage and be back in the thick of the battle. As the season progressed, the Horsemen became famous for their patented last quarter rallies.

Unlike the pattern of their games, the Red and White, surprisingly started off fast and then tapered off near the end of the season. The Hustling Horsemen opened with five straight victories and they were ranked 17th in the state. They suffered their first loss at the hands of E. C. Washington on December 15, and it wasn't until January 19th, that these roundballers won another game. A 64-46 romp over Tolleston broke the losing streak and started the Horsemen on a three game winning streak. Impressive victories over Whiting (64-47) and Valpo (71-59) comprised the abbreviated victory string. It was during that three game span, that coach Hobbs brought the team to its peak. If the Horsemen ever played up to their potential, it was during that period, and how or why they ever tailed off is the biggest mystery since Arthur pulled Excalibur from the rock.

The Red and White finished the regular season with an 11-10 record, and it had a tough time forging a ragged 64-57 win over Gary Edison, before losing a valiant battle with Gary Froebel, 69-56.

Season Highlights: . . . overtime victory at Crown Point, 79-76, Blaine and Smith score 31 and 20 points . . . upset victory at LaPorte . . . goal tending gives Mann 60-58 win over Wirt . . . Horsemen ranked 17th in state polls . . . H-men lose sudden death game to Hammond Tech 50-48 . . . Horsemen scare Froebel drop a 72-66 thriller . . . 3 straight victories climaxed by win over Valpo (best game of year) . . . Big fight as we stomp Calumet 79-59 . . . Fogo pumps in 29 points in 68-60 loss to E. C. Roosevelt . . . Upset loss to Emerson . . . Fred Fogo and Lee Kopulos elected co-captains . . . Davis Blaine and Fred Fogo received honorable mention in all-conference selections.

S. P. Q. R. Keeps Alive the Classical Spirit in H. M.

Sir Reminiscence:

"Senatus Populusque Romanus." Well, that's something I can understand, but are these Romans here having a senate meeting, Horace?

Horace:

Oh, this is a group of Latin students who desire to learn more about the Latin Language and Roman culture. They learn quite a bit about the Roman people, too! Every new member is a slave for one week; during this time he is sold to a master, whom he must serve and obey.

Sir Reminiscence:

How can these goodly scholars allow themselves to become slaves? A man is born into serfdom!

Horace:

Although it may have been a disgrace in medieval times, we treat lightly being a slave for a week; it's fun!

In addition to the slave auction, the club held a Roman banquet in November to which everyone wore a toga. For entertainment the members held a Roman wrestling match and staged a Roman wedding. The first-year Latin students sang Latin songs. The club took movies of the banquet too.

Sir Reminiscence:

Movies?

Horace:

Yes sir, they made moving pictures from the banquet, but they also attended another kind of movie. Some of the members of the club saw in Chicago the film, "Spartacus" which portrays Roman life.

Last February these scholars attended a city-wide convention held at William A. Wirt High School. Our Horsemen made name tags for all of the scholars in the city. The program was composed of skits and plays, some of which were given in the Latin language. There were also contests at the conference. The first-year students competed in mythology, and the second-year students contested in Roman history. Many of the Horace Mann scholars reached the final bout.

Sir Reminiscence:

And what prithes, is a convention?

Horace:

Conventions are like your town gatherings and feasts, only the scholars come for more serious purposes. Many of our H. M. scholars attended a state Latin conference held at Mishawaka in May. At this conference, they saw more skits about Latin life and participated in workshops in which they obtained many interesting ideas for new activities for SPQR. In order to send delegates to the National Junior Classical League Convention at Indiana University this summer, the club sponsored a car wash last May. Some of the members, too, are making stuffed animals to sell. And as a finale to the club's activities, the students held a banquet at the end of May at which they elected the officers who will lead the club next year.

SPQR is always looking for new ways to learn more about the Romans.

Pan American Club Fosters the Spanish Culture at H. M.

To prepare for future trials in the world, the people of the Horace Mann castle are tutored in many fields. Since many of the neighboring realms with which we trade, speak Spanish, knowledge of this language is considered an asset. To further their knowledge, some of the H.M. pupils have formed a club which holds meetings during the year.

Sometimes members report on the life and customs of various South American countries. Members then are with one another in combats of memory to see who has learned the most. Movies on the lands of South America and on leather craft also furnished programs for the monthly gatherings. To acquaint others in the land of the Horsemen with Spanish culture, a colorful and interesting exhibit was placed on display in the central hall of H.M.

To aid others is also a club project. During the season of St. Nicholas, a needy Spanish family was given a Christmas basket, to which all contributed canned food or money. A pinata, made like a Santa Claus head first furnished fun for the classes. Then it was stuffed with candy and added to the basket.

For the week of the S.O.S. Humanity Drive, penny fines piled up each day in Spanish classes. If one uttered a word of English in the class room, he was fined a penny. Everyone learned that he needed to think in Spanish if he was to express himself correctly.

An induction banquet in the fall launched the new officers and gave members a chance to know each other. Feasting, Spanish songs and games made a pleasant fiesta. The year's activities were concluded with a festival for all the people in the land of the Horsemen. The Annual Signing Party — on the day Horace Manuals were delivered. Many who wish to exchange autographs gather for this event which furnishes a pleasant ending for the League's school year.

German Club Encourages Study of a Foreign Tongue

Sir Reminiscence:

"What? In this a wandering band of Germans seeking to find a master?"

Horace:

"Oh no, Sir, these are scholars of the German language who have formed a club. Although the organization is only two years old, it already has members from each class of apprentices. The German Club was created because these scholars wanted to learn more about the German culture."

Sir Reminiscence:

"Why do they want to learn about the culture of the German people? Are they going to invade this land?"

Horace:

"Oh no, but today a knowledge of foreign culture is essential to maintain peace in our world. We must not only be able to communicate with people of other lands, but we must also understand their cultures."

"In order to learn about the festive customs of the German people, the members made a pilgrimage to Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry where they saw a German Christmas pageant. Afterwards they dined at a German restaurant with a cool, old world atmosphere."

Sir Reminiscence:

"A restaurant?"

Horace:

"Yes, a restaurant is like one of your mead halls, but today we pay for the food we eat. At a restaurant we order the type of food we want, but we are obliged to pay for it, Sir."

These German scholars were clever! They both sold and bought books. First they collected used pocket-size books and held a book fair. Then, with the profits, they bought German readers which told stories about modern German heroes. The club also held a dance to which came most of the people from the land of the Horsemen. Their goodly profits also helped provide for the new books.

"So you see, Sir Reminiscence, German Club really helps the scholars complete another part of their necessary training."

The French Club is a New Comer as an Independent Club

Like modern crusaders, the members of the Horace Mann French Club, are exploring a foreign land. A foreign language opens the vista of a whole new area. Through the study of a people's language, the students learn a great deal about the people themselves. Unlike those who lived in medieval times, Horace Mann pupils today are very interested in the rest of the world. Knowledge of a foreign language is a sign of a literate person. Here at HM castle all students have the opportunity to gain this benefit, even the seventh graders have this chance.

Joining together in a French Club students attempt to improve their conversational ability. Regular meeting where French is spoken furnish an opportunity to try out one's ability without embarrassment. Various types of programs are planned by the club's officers during the year.

At Christmas time, the Club held its annual banquet. On top of good food, the members enjoyed a few short, friendly skits in French.

Later in the year the members raised funds from a bake sale. Each person contributed some type of pastry which was then sold at a local grocery. The event furnished a fund with which to launch next year's group.

Scholars Enjoy Enriched Program

Hear ye, hear ye, make way for the Joe Berg Scholars. We now present the group to HM Court. This year the Horsemen's section of the Joe Berg seminars was augmented by the language students. Utilizing the language laboratory at Horace Mann, a new section for French, Latin, and Spanish has been added. The other Horsemen travel to the School Service Center, I.U. Center and Wirt Chemistry Labs i search of scientific knowledge or of increased insight into the problems in the humanities. Our Horsemen belonged to groups as diverse as Physics, Psychology, Sociology, and Chemistry. These scholars are indebted to Mr. Joe Berg for aiding them in their quest for knowledge, above and beyond the confines of the ordinary classroom.

City Swimming Champs

When Sir Reminiscence beheld the Horace Mann swimming pool he exclaimed, "What, and indoor moat." He was unaware that swimming is a big sport at Horace Mann.

Sir Reminiscence soon found that the "indoor moat" is used by the defending city swimming champs. This past year the Horsemen compiled their best record in a number of years (11-4). Its 5-2 conference record was worth third place.

In the second Annual City Swim Meet, the Horsemen literally ran away from the field. They scored 67 points and almost doubled the 39 points scored by second place Lew Wallace. Carny's mermen captured six first places and set three new records. Bob Radigan, Bill Wallace, Dave Monahan, Kip Sullivan, the 160 yard medley relay team; and 160 yard free style relay team all placed first. Radigan's time of 20.0 seconds flat was good enough for a new record in the 40 yard free style. Bill Wallace swam the 100 yard Butterfly in 1:17.3 for a new record. Kip Sullivan's 2:05.7 effort in the 160 yard indoor medley added a third new record for the Horsemen. Sullivan, who is only a Freshman, set a new Horace Mann record for points scored in a season. In fact it seemed that he set a new record every time he got his feet wet.

The lettermen and their events are as follows: Rick Anderson — 200 yard freestyle; Bob Campbell and Buzzy Radigan — diving. Dave Monahan, John Leeger, and Tom Hauser — 100 yard breast stroke. Joe Wolf and Scott Scheurer — 100 yard freestyle; Bob Radigan — 40 yard freestyle; Jim Radigan — 100 yard backstroke. Medley Relay Team — Buzz Radigan, Tom Hauser, Dave Monahan, and Bob Radigan: Freestyle Relay — Rick Anderson, Joe Wolf, Mike Carmichael, and Scott Scheurer.

SWIMMING SHORTS

The name Radigan was heard quite often in Horace Mann swimming this season. The swimming team had no less than three Radigans. Jim Radigan, a senior, swam the 100 yard backstroke. Bob Radigan, a junior, set the city record in the 40-yard Freestyle and was also on the medley relay team. Their cousin, "Buzzy"

Radigan, is a junior and one of the best divers in the city. "Buzzy" is probably the most perfectly developed boy in school. His muscles even have muscles — Recently, the Mothers' Club obtained starting blocks for the swimming team. —The future outlook in swimming is very good. Only three men will be lost by graduation.

Boys' and Girls' Council are Administrative Clubs

The councils, one for boys' clubs; the other for girls' organizations, were created to encourage, and certify new student organizations which wish to be established at Horace Mann.

Since the councils do not initiate any activity themselves, but merely serves any group which applies to them, their work is largely dependent upon the needs of the school.

This, the second year of their existence, has been spent in part on their own constitution, and also in discussing plans with several pupil groups who are considering launching new clubs.

Electron Club Produces Christmas Display

Sir Reminiscence made his first contact with the Electron Club during the Christmas Holidays while taking his daily tour of the Horace Mann grounds. He was walking across the athletic field when a beautiful multi-colored MERRY CHRISTMAS caught his eye.

What — another miracle thought he. Do magicians live in that part of the building?

No, its only one of the everyday feats of the Electron Club.

Lighting is one of its specialties. Twirling globes of color at dances, special features for a concert, or lighting effects at any school event —all these are created by the club.

Many of these boys also pride themselves on their skill as ham radio operators and are constantly tinkering with various radio devices. In the process they learn much about the practical side of electricity. Their headquarters are the electric shop over which Mr. Valenti presides, offering advice and guidance.

Wrestling is a Winter Sport

One day while strolling with Horace in the vicinity of the west building Sir Reminiscence wandered, by chance, into an area known as the "little gym." There he found another activity similar to one which flourished in the "Days of Old." Perhaps he was being a little snobbish when he remarked that in his heyday, wrestling was primarily a sport for uncultured masses but probably the boys on the team will permit him at least one transgression.

Upon seeing a few falls, he remarked to Art LaFleur, team captain, that wrestling seemed to have gained a great deal of finesse as compared to the contests of brute strength he remembered. Art pointed out to him that today wrestling is based on agility and speed since all combatants are of nearly equal weight.

Newty Peters, another team member, asked Sir Reminiscence

if he would like a demonstration of some of the finer points. He replied with enthusiasm only to find himself one of the participants. Needless to say he was tongue-tied. Luckily he wasn't hurt seriously.

This year the Wrestling Team really got into full swing after last year's modest beginning. Two team members, Newty Peters and Art LaFleur, went downstate to Lafayette to participate in a championship meet. Letters were also awarded this year to qualified team members.

The coaches, Sirs Sweigert and Syrine, spoke well of this year's team, and more important, they are looking forward to a banner season for next year's "mat-men."

Who's Who Banquet Launches Spring Social Season

Social Committee, a club composed of elected members, is the custodian of the school calendar. All festivities and public meetings that will take place must have the seal of approval of Social Committee. Since the committee keeps a calendar of events, there is no chance of two festivities interfering with one another. A list of chaperones and dance rules must also be registered with the committee.

A major duty of Social Committee this year was that of enforcing the new curfew which was placed on school activities. Under this city council ruling, only three major activities were to extend past ten o'clock. Social Committee revised its calendar to make this possible. Because of their high standard of behavior, the people of H.M. Kingdom were allowed to sponsor a few extra "over curfew hour" festivities.

Another of the major duties of Social Committee is that of joining Booster Club in presenting the annual Who's Who Dinner. The theme "Spring Showers" was used in the decorations.

All these activities are accomplished when Social Committee meets once a week under the direction of Miss Czarnecki.

In the Fall, Social Committee sponsored Rose Day. Each class was designated by the color of rose that its members wore. It was a very successful event judging from the beautiful rose scent that pervaded the halls.

At Christmas a basket was sent to a needy family and the committee made favors to give each faculty member before they left for the holiday.

World Affairs Forum is a New Organization

The forum was created to encourage pupils to study and discuss world affairs. Five students were chosen from H.M. — three seniors and two juniors. They met once a month with representatives from the other Gary high schools. The host school at each meeting presented a panel discussion on some subject such as "The Congo Crisis." All members also came prepared to take part in this discussion and to raise important questions. Those who have participated have gained much from these meetings and hope that next year the group can be expanded.

Debate Club Meets Its Important Trials in the Spring

Sir Reminiscence, here is a different sort of activity. Forensics is somewhat like a mental joust. Debating really develops keenness of mind, while extemp speaking, and the interpretative events sharpen one's ability to communicate. This year the representatives of the Horsemen castle have traveled afar gaining honors for the realms.

First they journeyed into Hammond High Land. There the members participated in extemporaneous speaking and dramatic and humorous reading events. Though H.M. gained no laurels, each of the participants received excellent experience which enabled them to champion in later tournaments.

Next the itinerary carried the H.M. combatants to the land of Logansport. The long journey proved fruitful. New members, Melvyn Abrams, Gary Pollak, and Pam Parrish showed well under strain. The team returned with fourth place banner in Girls' Extemporaneous speaking. One group then proceeded on to another trophy to deck the walls! This was the Annual Purdue University Congress and Extemporaneous Speaking Contest. Our senator, Bob Laczi, was chosen to present his committee's report on the floor. The Representatives Lynn Brandman, Lisa Steiner, Rick Young, and Gary Pollak had their bill incorporated into the committee's final draft. Our entrants in the speaking contest did quite well. Next year the club may once again win its former championship status.

Next the debate team moved into action at the Navy Pier division of the University of Illinois. Here it encountered its first foe of the regular debate season. Discussion in the lists was limited to the topic, "Resolved that the United Nations should be significantly strengthened." The team presented two demonstration combats at the Hammond Morton and Gary Tolleston courts. H.M. showed its skill, too, at the District Contest held in April. The varsity squad of Karen Baker, and Marille Fendlema, affirmative; and Rick Rothschild and Garry Gardner, negative; received a 4-5 record. In the speaking division, two of our members, Cary Pollak and Gail Levin, advanced to the zone contest in Elkhart. There Cary was able to battle his way to the semi-finals.

In the Speech Tournament held at Hammond High, H.M. retrieved many banners. It capped first place, a blue ribbon in the Girls' Extemporaneous. The squad also proved its skill at the Indiana State Teachers' College Speech Festival. Karen Baker, Kathy Kosinski, and Marille Fendleman all won superior ratings and blue ribbons.

The final journey was to Lafayette Jefferson Castle for the National Forensic League State Tournament. Represented by six pages, apprentices, squires, and knights, the Horsemen entered the field. Unfortunately, H.M.'s skill was not enough to place, but as always, members gained a great deal of experience.

Much of our success this year was motivated by our leader, Mr. Lee Goodman. He worked untiringly to help us. The H.M. Debate Club traveled extensively under his guidance, and retained the glory of the Castle.

Horace Mann Band Works All Summer

As Sir Reminiscence pays a visit to the Land of the Horsemen he finds a remarkable likeness of the wandering minstrels of his own land to the Championship Horace Mann Band. Like the minstrels of old, the Band and the internationally famous Majorette Corps, Guidons, and Color Guard travel and entertain throughout the land.

This year's band activities began with a program which has come to be renowned — The Annual Extravaganza. The 1960 concert featured an excellent clarinet solo by senior, Norb Molder. The awarding of the band achievement trophies and an award to Mr. Resur as an outstanding director were part of the evening's festivities. The concert was ended by a stirring production of Horace Mann's favorite, "Joshua."

Memorial Day saw the Band make its annual appearance in the Gary parade. July the 4th meant two parades and a concert in Harvey and Blue Island, Illinois, for these traveling musicians.

Three days later, a return visit was paid to the International Lions' Convention Parade in Chicago, Illinois, and The Miss Indiana Parade in Michigan City, Indiana, also featured the H.M. Band.

The City-wide Little League Parade and a parade for Horace Mann's Annual Fund-raising Carnival closed the band's appearances for the month of July.

Mid-August is the time for the Lake County Fair. After a busy day on the fairgrounds, the band altogether with their snappy Majorette Corp, precision Guidons, and flashing Color Guard presented their annual concert on Gary Day at the Fair.

The last of the summer band activities was an event that has come to be tradition with Horace Mann bandmen — the band contest during the Mardi Gras celebration at Riverview Park, Chicago. After winning first place for the 11th consecutive year, the band returned one week later and performed in the Parade of Champions, at Riverview.

Guidons

Two misfortunes interrupted the usual fall schedule. Band uniforms were ruined by rain when the group marched in the welcoming parade for Calhoun, the Olympic victor. The band could make no public appearance for several months after this. The second setback occurred when the director, Mr. Resur, was injured and had to be absent for part of the year. The band, however, gave a special benefit concert at Memorial for Mr. Resur. This event, which was well attended, gave members an added opportunity to prepare for a public appearance. Two banquets in the spring — one for the band, and one for the majorettes — were the main social events for the season.

For another year, the Horace Mann Band under the outstanding direction of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Resur has earned the title of "Gary's Ambassadors of Good Will."

Horace Mann Orchestra has a Busy Schedule

In days of old when knights were bold, minstrels played in the great halls during weddings, feasts, funerals, and on any other occasion which might warrant music.

Under their new director, James Huffman, the members of the Horace Mann Orchestra have also played at programs throughout the year. This musical organization performed at the Junior Honor Society Induction. Once again at commencement this year's seniors marched to the traditional strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" played by the orchestra.

The orchestra's activities were highlighted by the Annual spring concert. A feature was the solo by senior Neil Hoback who played "Vivaldi Concerto." A string quintet composed of Richard Sparks, Richard Dorsey, Bob Stephan, Peter Anthony, and Neil Hoback played "Golden Sonata." The evening was closed by the presentation of trophies: Candace Cox received the most valuable member trophy, Christine Davis was awarded the achievement trophy, and Neil Hoback received the musicianship trophy.

An innovation in orchestra activities was introduced with the concerts that have been presented at three area elementary schools—Vohr, Ambridge, and Chase. Tests were administered to interested students to determine their musical ability. Orchestra music thus was introduced for the first time to many future high school students.

The orchestra department has undergone an organizational change which has produced an improved orchestra. As part of the new system, after-school classes have been started with children from Vohr school. The purpose is to help the children with their music and prepare them for future membership in the orchestra. Other plans have been formulated which will eventually result in even a better orchestra program.

The activities of the year were closed with a banquet for the members of the orchestra. A hard working group of musicians under a competent director has brought renewed fame to the Horace Mann Orchestra.

Trackmen Take to the Cinders

Although Sir Reminiscence had taken part in many foot-races when he was training for knighthood, he is baffled by the strange apparel and devices which are a part of modern day track. He confessed to never having seen anything as strange as "Mouse" pole vaulting.

Horace quickly explained the modern track methods to Sir Reminiscence and soon they were ready to watch the Horsemen in action. Our track team opened the season by finishing 4th in the conference indoor meet, which was held in Chicago. Art Angotti and the half mile relay team placed first for Mann. In their first dual meet, the Horsemen clobbered Wallace. They followed by losing a close meet to Wirt. To date, the Horsemen have beaten Wallace, E. C. Roosevelt, Hammond Morton, Whiting, Culver, and Hammond Noll. They lost to Wirt and Gary Roosevelt. In the conference outdoor, the Red and White made their best showing so far in the season; they finished a close second only four points behind Gary Tolleston. Art Angotti was the only Mann winner but the other men came through with a rash of seconds and thirds. A few days later the Horsemen finished fourth in the Valpo Relays. As we go to press the sectionals have yet to be held. Here are some predictions: Art Angotti in the 880, Dilling in the 100 yard dash and the Half Mile Relay team of Kelly Harrington, Tom Mathis, Richie Dilling, and Bill Capestany, all will qualify for the regionals.

Track Line-up

100 yd. dash	Rich Dilling, Tom Mathis
200 yd. dash	Rich Dilling, Tom Mathis
440 yd. dash	Kelly Harrington, Mike Shlensky
880 yd. dash	Art Angotti, Jim O'Shanna
Mile run	Joe Delgado, Art Angotti
120 yd. high hurdles	Bill Capestany
180 yd. low hurdles	Bill Capestany
High jump	Charlie Finley, Ed Mavronicles
Pole vault	Steve Manoski, Ken Hathaway
Shot put	John Collins, Tim Brown
One-half mile relay team	Tom Krasne, Rich Dilling, Tom Mathis, Bill Capestany
Mile relay team	Kelly Harrington, Art Angotti Jim O'Shanna, Mike Shlensky

Golf Swings Off to Good Start

Sir Reminiscence was totally oblivious to golf. Horace was astounded to find that Sir Reminiscence hadn't even heard of Arnold Palmer! Even though Horace has oriented Sir Reminiscence to some of the rudiments of the game, the old knight still doesn't see anything chivalrous or valiant in walking through a field striking a defenseless ball with a weired stick.

For the past three years boys at Horace ann have been hitting little balls with those weird sticks. This year the golf team, under Coach Elbert Carnahan, has a heavy schedule of twenty matches and two tournaments. Last year's team had a 10-10 record and tied for third in the conference. This year the golf team should do even better. As we go to press the Horsemen own a 7-6 record. They have had some close calls. The Red and White beat Highland and Hobart by 8-7 scores and tied East Chicago Roosevelt 7½-7½ before winning 10-8 on a best gall count. The members of the golf team are seniors: Fred Fogo, Ken Harrison, and Dick Miesel. Juniors: Bob Chulock, and Gene Dilling. Sophomores: Arnold Coons and Freshman Pete Fogo.

Defending Conference Champs Envision Another Baseball Title

A few days ago Sir Reminiscence and Horace were leisurely strolling down Fifth Avenue while Lee Kopulos was taking batting practice. You guessed it! Sir Reminiscence was decked by a shot that sailed over the thirty foot right field fence.

Seriously, the land of the Horsemen hopes that Lee and the rest of the team can bomb that right field fence. Coach Irv Elser has the unenviable job of rebuilding a conference championship team that was hurt by graduation. This year's team is centered around five seniors. They are Davis Blaine (pitch and outfield), Lee Populos (first base and pitch), Al Fesus (third base), Jim Dimitri (catcher), and Steve Powell (pitcher). All of those boys are good, if not great, ball players but there are still four other positions to be filled. At the time the team record is 2-4 and we wish the Horsemen luck in defending their title, as the Manual goes to press.

Damsels Enjoy Year-Round Sports Program

"You know, Sir Reminiscence, we believe that physical fitness is as important to girls as it is to boys. Here at Horace Mann we have a club reserved for the girls in which they can participate in athletics. It is called G.A.A. (Girls Athletic Association) and their sports include bowling, basketball, swimming, tennis, volleyball, wallball, and baseball."

"My, their leaders must be kept busy thinking up all of these sports."

2nd row: Roberta Adams, Ellen Van Horn, Juanita Viera

"The sports are very competitive, too. In basketball the best players from each class competed in a tourney. With a score of 49-44, the Sophomore class proved that they had the best team. Wallball also had a tourney which was won last fall by Elane Richards' team. And, of course, the bowling tourney aroused plenty of excitement. Marge Oliver scored 175 for the highest game, and Mary Fisher maintained the highest average. The bowling series was won by the team which had Roberta Hoffman (G.A.A. President) as captain."

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. (In this case a dull girl); so the G.A.A. has more activities than sports alone. In the fall, to welcome the freshmen, G.A.A. held a party in the cafeteria with refreshments for everyone."

"Well who has the imagination to plan all these activities, Horace?"

"The G.A.A. Board and Council, made up of all the sports leaders and the Clubs' officers, manage the affairs of the club. The members honored their leaders with the Chili feast in November."

The Board also went to see the Ice Capades in Chicago, and some of them even attended Sports Day at Valpo University. In December, the girls held a Christmas Party at which they served cake and punch and distributed candy canes as favors. At this time, the club presented its sponsor, Miss Spychalski, with a gift as a small token of its appreciation.

The event to which most of the members look forward is the campout. This year it was held at Indiana Dunes State Park, with Lew Wallace, from eight in the morning to nine at night. At six o'clock the great banquet began. Every section had an opportunity to honor members for outstanding sportsmanship at this time.

Awards of merit are presented to five freshmen and five sophomores. Juniors and seniors compete for one trophy that is given to one member of each class. Girls look forward to winning such honors.

Scholars are Honored at Year's End

Horace Mann has a group similar to the Knights of the Round Table. Our squires and knights must meet the requirements of academic skill and service to the school, rather than pass tests of physical powers. Contests are judged on the basis of character, service, scholarship, and leadership. Those who successfully attain these standards are inducted into the Senior Honor Society.

The group met during the year for several "At Random" discussions on world affairs, politics, and college life much as did the knights of yore who held councils to discuss their problems.

The H. M. Honor Society, part of a national organization, helps set goals for all true scholars in the land of the Horsemen.

Cooperatives Finish Busy Year!

These maidens lead a double life. One half of their day is spent at school; the other half finds them working as apprentices in offices, banks, telephone exchanges, or in other business enterprises.

These girls are carefully supervised and graded on their work by the supervisor, Mr. Hardie. Living in two worlds does present difficulties, but most of the girls find the experience interesting and stimulating.

"My kingdom for a theme," cried the distraught annual staff. "What, by my lady, what is that?" queried Sir Reminiscence.

Suddenly a gleam of hope! The annual staff regarded one another with delight. This, of course, could be the theme. "You are," everyone exclaimed with relief.

Having found a theme, the staff went on to face other obstacles. No candy machines — no money. Selling potato chips and fritos partially solved that problem (with loyal cooperation of the school).

No photography lab, no help from photography classes proved to be a more serious problem. By the middle of the first semester, this difficulty too, was overcome.

The usual struggle followed with pupils who didn't show up for scheduled pictures, with lost copy, with layouts that were unattractive no matter how the artists struggled, with all the details that prove more difficult than anyone has anticipated.

Slowly amid mishaps and confusion, a dummy emerged and was sent to the printer. So came into being the tale of Sir Reminiscence in the land of the Horsemen.

The Annual Goes to Press!

Choral Club Adds Sweet Music for End of Year Activities

The merry choristers of Horace Mann land are as gay a group of minstrels as can be found in any country. Their lays delighted Sir Reminiscence when first he heard them at the Student Council Induction.

This band worked zealously all fall vending cookies and candy to fill its treasure chest against future demands. The fall spaghetti feast to induct new members proved to be an enjoyable occasion. Each newcomer was called upon to account for his reasons in joining the choral group. Songs, of course, added to the merriment.

The Christmas Season is a time for music and these singers were ready with a goodly stock of carols and Christmas songs. Not only did they entertain Horace Mann but they also sang for the two Gary hospitals; and also serenaded Mr. Resur and carolled throughout the H. M. neighborhood.

After furnishing music for Junior Honor Society Induction, the group began to study very seriously for its heavy end of the year program. The music festival comes in May then there follows Recognition Day, Baccalaureate, and Commencement. All of these performances necessitate long hours of rehearsal both for individual soloists and the chorus as a whole. Miss Winters, the director, is an exacting taskmaster but under her guidance the group is slowly welded into a melodious choir. Meanwhile the group filled two community engagements, singing for the Historical Society and a Food Service Meeting.

The Car Wash in April was a great financial success, which made possible the annual Spring banquet. Seniors are honored guests — the recipients of corsages or boutonniers, as well as other honors. Music, farewell speeches and the sincere good fellowship of a group which has worked together on worthwhile projects, make this gala affair a cherished memory for all Choral Club members.

Choral Reading at Commencement

Learning to become masters in the art of speaking and listening is the aspiration of each and every Horace Mann Speech Club apprentice. These apprentices work diligently on their chosen masterpieces in order to advance to the grade of master.

Among the club's accomplishments for this year was the successful presentation of a western style Talent Parade, featuring the performance of a Historical Episode which dealt with the John Smith and Pocahontas incident in early American History. The Sophomore play — "Brother Goose" — was also a presentation, directed and produced by the Speech Club.

The club also rendered a community service when it recited for the Women's Society of Christian Service of City Methodist Church, a choral reading which consisted of a series of poems appropriate for the Lenten season. Commencement exercises were graced by another choral reading entitled "A World United."

Rewards for its zeal included a journey to Chicago to see "Fiorello," a musical on the career of Fiorello LaGuardia who was at one time Mayor of New York City. These apprentices also had a party at Christmas, a pizza party in March, a party for induction of new members in early May, and a banquet for election and installation of new officers at the end of May.

Through these varied activities, the speech apprentices have combined hard work with pleasure in order to attain their goals as masters of speech
